

HFNC Report on Kanawalla Flora Reserve 2012

Rod Bird
December 2012

General notes

Much water lying on the central section, on NE area and near MacFarlanes Rd on 2 September. The Club did not visit the area this year and hence little work has been done. No vandalism to report.

Flora

We note that the Natural Temperate Grasslands of the Western Volcanic Plains was listed in June 2008 by the Commonwealth Minister for the Environment as a critically endangered community under the EPBC Act. This area is included.

No new species have been recorded. A young Tree Everlasting was noted near south fence, east of the power line crossing. The list has 86 native species.

Fencing

The fence in the NE corner (adjacent to the Blue Gums) has fallen down and has not yet been repaired. A wire has been broken behind the dam and needs to be re-connected.

Track clearance

Overhanging branches were trimmed by RB in June.

Weed control

Pallid Cuckoo – seen in September 2012, possibly soon after arrival from northern Australia (Photo D Luhrs).
